Electrics Win Again; Ball Park Grand Stand Burned

Errors Lose Another Game; GEORGE DUDDY SAVES ONE RUN SCORED IN SENATORS WIN TWO BIG GRANDSTAND AT Victory Turned Into Defeat BUTTE FROM DEFEAT

In Spite of Home Run, Triple and Two-bagger, Salt Lake Fails to Hold Advantage; Too Much Power Behind Heaves.

Arrangements were completed last night for the transfer of two of Salt Lake's games at Ogden next week to this city. Salt Lake will get the games scheduled at Ogden Friday and Saturday of next week. This, with the game scheduled for this city Sunday, September 14-the closing event of the league season-will give the Salt Lake fans an opportunity of seeing three games of the Ogden series instead of one. The contract for the transfer was Blausser of as good a hit as was ever signed by President Hite of the local association and A. P. Bigelow cuit have accepted as correct, Salt Lake this morning leads the resulted 1 to 6 in Butte's favor. league by three points, a small fraction of one game. According to figures telegraphed by President Mulroney of the league, Great Falls is credited with one more win and one fewer loss, giving the Falls is credited with one more win and one fewer loss, giving the Electrics the lead by this standing: Great Falls, .637; Salt

Whether Mulroney is right, or the other figures are right doesn't matter so very much. The prime essential now is to wi the two remaining games from Great Falls and next week to wi six from Ogden. Great Falls meets Butte next week, and as the Coppers are playing great ball, Hester will have his hands fu to break even. Being half a game ahead or behind, therefore doesn't have so very much bearing on the end of the world.

Two for McCloskey.

Once more the gay	-		fooz

Once more the gay and festive foozle put the Skyscrapers on the slide yesterday. High-power heaving, clever footwork at goal kicking and now and then the malled fist were the causes that let Salt Lake down another fatal notch.

McGlynn should have won his game. He had it easily but for those unfortunate wobbles. Besides which Stony laced out a three-bagger, but he died on third.

Huelsman made the longest hit of the season, and perhaps the longest hit of all time on Lucas field, when he smashed the ball to the roof of the third house beyond the longest left center fence.

Williams pitched good ball for Great Falls after the second faming, and he was steady in pinches. At least three of the runs made in the game were directly due to the humpety-dumpety condition of the grounds. In the first inning, Great Falls batsmen got two of their runs on hits that bounded over the fielders' heads, and in the same inning one of Salt Lake's runs was due to the same kind of a hop.

McGlynn's Bad Heritage.

McGlynn's Bad Heritage.

Stony McGlynn was unfortunate in the legacy that was left him. Erickson started the pitching for Salt Lake, but he quit in the first after three runs had been scored.

Fred Stripp was behind the bat for Salt Lake, and he certainly did some fine pegging and backstopping. Stripp shines when it comes to putting out runners at the plate. No silding opponent's spikes have terrors for the big fellow, and collisions are right in his line.

It was an exciting game. In fact, it was one of the most thrilling of battles in spite of those errors. The game was never salted down by the visitors until the last man was out.

Sensational Fielding.

One might be tempted to question the truth of the statement that there was more sensational fielding in yesterday's game than in any game this season. The doubter would perhaps be justified in his suspicions after he looked upon the error column. Yet it is a fact that there was more fast baseball to the square inch in yesterday's game than in any game this season. The doubter would perhaps be justified in his suspicions after he looked upon the error calumn. Yet it is a fact that there was more fast baseball to the square inch in yesterday's game than it any round; up of recent times. A full chapter might be devoted to the fielder nafled it on the sting of defeat.

In the second, Spencer made a grand catch of Buck Weaver's long fly to center, it would easily have been a three-bagger had not the fielder nafled it on the dead run,

In the seame inning there was a fast double by Wentz and Hester. The former took a terrific grounder from Spencer's fieteness of foot will realize at once that Wentz didn't lose any time on the play.

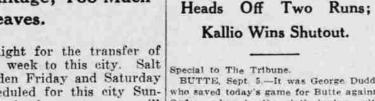

A Grand Double Play.

A Grand Double Play.

The slickest double play that was ever pulled on Lucas field came in the third, with Stripp, Schimpff and Davis as the participants. In that inning Potts had taken a life on a single. Hester followed Potts with a bunt, which was a feature in itself—that bunt. It was made in big league style, very slowly, and difficult to handle. Potts was already past second and on his way to third when Stripp recovered the bunt, threw Hester out at first, where Schimpff took the throw. Schimpff shot it to Davis in time to stab Potts. The fifth inning was notable for great work in the outfields. Huelsman started with a beautiful running catch of Potts's fly, and Faye and Wentz won distinction on fine running grabs that retired Murphy and Huelsman.

Spencer cut off a run at the plate in the sixth, when after catching Galena's fly, he shot the ball home in time to jab

Kelly. Kelly came in for plenty of criticism from the Electrics for not silding, but it is doubtful if he could have slid under Stripp to safety.

In addition to these few noteworthy events, there was some stellar work by Davis on a pickup, recovery and throw in the sixth on Hester's hopper. In the second Hester made a sensational stop of a throw by Wentz a block which undoubtedly prevented Salt Lake from scoring. Potts did some lightning work at short. An error is charged against him, and it is one of the queer things in baseball that his wobble was made on a ball that a child could have handled.

The first inning gave promise—perhaps 'twere better to say gave forebodings—of a ragged, long-eared game, for in that inning the visitors got three and the home club two. After the first, however, there was regular baseball.

When one was out in the first, Erickson sent Hester to first on balls. Wentz hit to Davis for an easy out, but the third baseman failed to handle the roller and there were two on. Kelly hit to third. The ball took a high bound and went sizzling into the field. Hester scored on the hit. Faye was next up and he soaked it for three bases to deep center, scoring Wentz and Kelly.

Then Erickson went away and McGlynn took up the task. Galena, first to face Stony, bunted to McGlynn in an attempted squeeze play, but it didn't work, and Faye was out at the pan. Galena was caught trying to steal second a moment later, retiring the side. Willard Hearing Drags.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Sept. 5—The hearing of Jess Willard and eleven others charged with connection with the death of John Young, whose demise followed a knockout blow dealt by Willard in their recent ring encounter at Vernon dragged through another day, with the defense endeavoring to show that prizering violence could not be charged with the fatality. Sporting writers called as witnesses today agreed that the Willard Young affair was a booking contest, not a prize fight. The newspaper men occupied the stand most of the day, and the hearing was not completed.

SECOND GAME.

PITTSBURG, Sept. 5.—Pittsburg took both games from St. Louis this afternoon, the first by the score of $1 to $3, and the second, which was called in the seventh inning on account of darkness, by the score of $1 to $3. Pittsburg hit Harmon hard in the first game, while Cooper pitched nice ball. Perritt was wild in the second game, walking seven men in as many innings, hitting another, committing a balk and allowing eleven hits. Suggs, protesting against Umpire Righer's decision on Perritt's balk, was ordered off the field in the second game.

St. Louis's errors helped Pittsburg to roll up scores, and they ran wild on bases against the throwing of Roberts, a recruit catcher. O'Toole pitched well, striking out seven men in the seven innings.
